

Section 7: Bibliography

The home, the early learning program, Kindergarten programs and the community all contribute to the lifelong educational, emotional and developmental success of children. With this in mind, developing systematic transition strategies must become a common goal of communities as a way of supporting children and families. Collaboration between the home or early learning program, the elementary school and the community is a way to enhance the child's independence while supporting and empowering the family in the process. The resources in this section provide additional information and resources that match the PA Transition framework.

- Print Resources
- Web Resources
- Kits and other Resources